Two Pardons Granted.

Governor O'Ferrall yesterday pardoned George B. Bradshaw (colored), who in May, 182, was zenteneed in the Corporation Court of Fredericksburg to three years' imprisonment in the penitentiary for horse-stealing. In granting the pardon the Gov-ernor gives the following reasons: The pardon of the prisoner, whose conduct has been good, is recommended by IF. Harrison, the surgeon, on account of the convict's ill-health. He is suffering from partial paralysis."

The Governor also pardoned Frank Martin, who in February, 1833, was sentenced in the Wise County Court to six years' imprisonment in the penitentiary for robbery. The following reasons are given by the Governor for his action:
"This pardon is recommended by Dr. Harison, the surgeon, and Superintend-ent B. W. Lynn, on occount of the ill-health of the prisoner. He is suffering from heart disease. His conduct since his incarceration has been good."

The decorator's art here has been employed to the very best advantage, and every-where one glances a high order of taste is apparent. Down the centre of the potted palms, ferns, and Easter li-serving to add an exquisite effect. -ither side are to be seen a most chrate line of point laces, including the famous point venise laces in all the most unique and novel patterns. Iris point, point de parie, and a variety others too numerous to mention. Most of these are of exclusive designs, the firm catering in great measure to an exclu-sive line of trade. Many of the conceit are strikingly handsome, and a greater strikingly handsome, and a greater variety leaves a broad scope for selection according to one's taste. COUPON CONTRACTS PRONOUNCED TO BE NULL AND FOID.

A Very Important Decision for the State of Virginia...The Langhorne Case Goes Back to the Lower Court.

The case of the Commonwealth against McCollough, which came from the Circuit Court of Norfolk city, decided in the Supreme Court of Appeals yesterday. was of decided interest to the legal fraternity and of great importance to the State. It is believed that it will finally end all litigation growing out of the Funding bill contract to receive coupons in payment of taxes, and makes the recent settlement of the public debt

It will be remembered that the contract endorsed on the coupon, and de-clared valid and binding on the State in the case of Antoni vs. Wright, decided in 1872, provided that it should be "receivable at and after maturity for all debts, dues, and demands due the State." This led to the free use of coupons

In the payment of taxes, and the State in the payment of taxes, and the saw as driven to desperate straights to secure enough money to run the Government. In 1884, as one means of relief, the Legislature specially prohibited the payment in the saw and linear increases. ment of school taxes and liquor licenses in coupons. This law was vigorously assauted in the courts, as contrary to the sweeping decision in Antoni vs. Wright, but the Court of Appeais and the Su-preme Court of the United States in the Vashion and Childrey cases held that in sofar as the coupon contract made coupons receivable for school taxes and liquor licenses it was unconstitutional and void. These decisions were made in 1889, and undoubtedly had an important bearing in bringing about the Alcott settlement. But it soon became evident ng bonds, with tax-receivable coupons attached, say $1,25,000, determined not to accept the settlement but to stay on the itside and force their coupons into the Treasury for taxes other than school taxes and liquor licenses.

In the meantime the counsel for the Sinking Fund Commissioners, in connec-tion with the Attorney-General, raised a new question as to the validity of the outpon contract, viz, that inasmuch as he courts had decided that that contract was niegal in part, that on the well-known principle a contract having an illegal consideration in part was illegal and void in whole. In other words that vice or illegality being incorporated in the contract rendered the whole void. Sustained the View.

The Supreme Court of Appeals on lerday, by the concurrence of judges for, to one against, where the practical result is to cut an annual crop of $73,50 of coupons for the next twelve years that would be forced into the Tresury, besides about forced into the Tresury, besides agout $1,000,000 of matured coupons outstanding. According to a statement made by Second Auditor Ryland, the decision will save to the State $1,293,162, provided these bonds and coupons are now funded as they certainly will be, in his opin-

In the case of Charles M. Langhorne Co., the Court of Appeals reversed the judgment of the Circuit Court of the city of Richmond, and remanded the ase for a new trial on its merits.

This action is for damages to the plaintiff by being thrown from a car of the defendant, through alleged negligence of the driver, whereby the plaintiff has been rendered a cripple. The damages were laid at $25,000. The defendant claimed all those dainty paraphermalia so dear to the heart of woman, why, the natural inference was that a treat was in store for the fair shoppers. This theory is substantiated beyond a doubt when one stops in front of the establishment and Electric Company, and that by virtue of indulers in a near at the show-window. that the party responsible was the Richmond Railway Company, and not the Richmond City Railway Company or its successor the Richmond Bailway and a sale made of the franchises and proper-ty of the Richmond Rallway Company, under a second and third mortgage to the defendants prior to the institution of this suit, and the adoption by the pur-chasers of a new name, under the pro-visions of chapter 61, of the Code of 1819, they (the purchasers) acquired the pro-perty and franchises of the Richmond Railway Company free from all Habil-ities, except a first mortgage, which was assumed by the purchasers.

The court held that under the act of The court heid that under the act of the Legislature of March 20, 1890, which authorized the city of Richmond to in-corporate street railways, such corpora-tions so incorporated were, by the terms of the act, not subject to the provisions of chapter 61, of the Code of 1849. Therefore, the purchasers in acting under that chapter failed to create a new corporation, but they, being the owners of the old corporation, applied to the city and obtained an extension of its charter, under which they are still operating the road, and this act of their's results as a revivor of the Richmond Railway Company, and for this reason the defendant in

DEATH OF J. D. K. SLEIGHT.

The Well-Known Christian Gentleman and Sunda - School Worker Passes Away.

A profound sorrow filled the hearts of thousands of people in and out of Richmond yesterday when it was announced that Mr. J. D. K. Sleight was dead. Mr. Sleight possessed the admiration and love of Sunday-school children everywhere, and he was widely-known Sunday-school worker and consecrated Christian gentleman.

As agent of the Presbyterian Committee of Publication for many years, he managed that business with marked system and success, but it was in Sundaydelight, and he was a welcome visitor in many schools outside of his own de-

I have heard stated with pleasure and gratification that he had been invited to deliver the annual address before a Sunday-school in an adjoining county the thirteenth successive time. The school belonged to another denomination. He was ever kind, polite, and help-ful and his bright smile and cherry words were like a benediction wherever he went.

he went. He was widely known throughout the South, and has always taken active part in any religious movements in this city. He was a pleasing speaker and never declined to respond to any call where he could be of service.

He came to this city from Sag Harber, lew York, previous to the war, and has lived in this city ever since.

He was for a quarter of a century superintendent of the First Presbyterian Sunday-school. He was, also, a ruling elder in that church and was superintendent of the Sunday-school work of the East Hanover Presbytery.

He died yesterday morning at 7 o'clock in his sixty-second year, from an illness which dates back beyond the holidays. He was taken with the grip, which afterwards developed into pneumonia, and steadily grew worse until the end. He was conscious up to the time of his death, and passed away in the full hope of a glorious immortality.

Mr. Sleight leaves a devoted wife to mourn his loss. They were without children.

The funeral will take place at 5 o'clock this afternoon from the First Presbyterian church. On account of the illness of Dr. Kerr, the pastor and the absence from the city of Dr. Hoge. Dr. Richardson will conduct the services. All of the ministers of the city are especially invited to attend. The teachers and scholars of the First Presbyterian Sunday-school will attend in a body.

The honorary pall-hearers will be: Messrs. R. T. Brooks. Archibald Bolling, John R. West, Harvie Blair, Judgo B. R. Wellford, and Captain George W. Allen.

The active pall-bearers will be: J. N. Cullingworth, W. C. Preston, W. S. Roberston, Robert Whittet, W. S. Donnan, Charles H. Wellford, Wm. Camp, and Joseph B. Sagarla. and Joseph P. Swords.

SLANDERING MR. MOODY. A Charge Refuted Nine Years Ago is Again

Circulated. malicious persons, who apparently, for reasons best known to themselves, are opposed to Mr. Moody's coming here, have circulated the absurd charge that Mr. Moody had slandered the memory of Ganaral Law and share where of General Lee, by some sharp criticism of that noble hero of the Confederate cause which he is said to have made years ago. Shortly before Mr. Moody visited Richmond, nine years ago, this same charge was made in certain quarters and it was at that time years ago. ters, and it was at that time ventilated in the public press by several co Mr. Moody never paid any attention to these charges and referred to the mat-ter only after he had reached this city Saturday, January He arrived here on 3, 1865, and on the next morning the fol-lowing appeared in public print as to the remark which he made relating to tion, as very much gratified at an op-portunity of fulfilling his long-cherished portunity of fulfilling his long-cherished purpose of visiting and holding meetings in Richmond. He spoke in the very highest terms of some of our great Virginians, especially of Lee and Jackson, whom, he said, he had always regarded us Chairian addition of the work highest as Christian soldiers of the very highest type. He seemed deeply interested in some type. He seemed deeply interested in some anecdotes of Lee, told by a gentleman present, and expressed a strong wish to possess of copy of a life of Lee that was offered him, saying that he desired to place it in the library of a female college in Massachusetts, in which he is interested."

This very sentiment on the part of Mr. Moody is corroborated still more strongly by that gentleman's most positive denial of the truth of the charge, in a letter written by Rev. Moses D. Hoge, D. D. On the day of Mr. Moody's arrival, the pastor of the Second Presbyterian church paid him a visit and gathered from his own lips the fact that Mr. Moody had not only not slandered Generals Lee and Jackson, but was a great admirer of the two eminent leaders of the southern army. In the letter, which was written for publication, Dr. which was written for publication, Dr. Hoge made the following statement: "This afternoon Mr. B. C. Gray called

"He replied promptly and emphatically that it was strange indeed that of all men these two should have been named spectfully, when they were the very men whom he held in highest esteem and honor. He added that he had never said proceeded to express freely and fully his admiration for these eminent men, so dear to the hearts of our southern people Surprise has been expressed at th silence maintained by some of those who united in the invitation to Mr. Moody to visit this city, when from day to day he was charged with an offence so grave.

"We have before us a letter from our accomplished friend, Mrs. Mary Stuart Smith, of the University of Virginia, in Smith, of the University of Virginia, in which she expresses the deepest regret that her letter published in the Herald in 1876 should be used to Mr. Moody's injury. She says that in the address in which it is claimed that Mr. Moody spoke in offensive terms of Lee and Jackson, "the names of the leaders on either side of the war were not used." She also of the war were not used." She also says." But if people quote my words I do wish that they would not divorce them from the spirit in which they were uttered." Mrs. Smith expresses the most earnest wish to visit Richmond during
